How HBO works.

As many viewers write to ask why HBO repeats the same movie or special several times in the weeks following its first showing, we try to explain this frequently.

Most movies and specials make their first appearances on weekends—Friday, Saturday and Sunday. You are assured of seeing one new-to-HBO program on these days. Most sporting events, some movies and certain specials also make their debuts on weekdays.

For viewing convenience, all programs are then shown again on four or five occasions during the next four weeks. On different days. At different hours.

When programs debut in the middle or latter part of the month, their opening runs are carried over into the early part of the next month. It is important to remember this when planning your viewing, as the guide gives you play dates for the current month only.

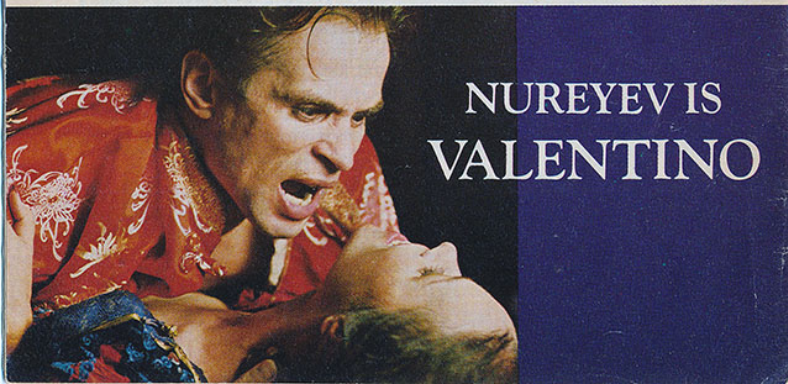

In addition, we encore some of the most popular movies or specials from previous months for those who missed them.

To help you plan, the guide schedule is divided into weekends and weekdays. It includes ratings, running times and page numbers. These refer to the location in the guide where you can find out more about the programs which interest you.

HBO welcomes letters from subscribers. Please mail to: Ms. Susan Devon, HBO Customer Relations Dept., Time & Life Building, Rockefeller Center, New York, N.Y. 10020

Home Box Office reserves the right to make a schedule change or program substitution without notice.
